PETERSBURG, January 22.

THE defensive Treaty of Alliance between this Court and the King of Prussia, which had been some time on the Anvil, is at last concluded and sign'd, as we are assur'd: By this Treaty the high contracting Parties promise to assist each other with 12,000 Men, in case they are attack'd. The new Commissaries appointed to examine the (late) Duke of Courland, have reported that it is needless to proceed in that Affair, the Prisoner being so disorder'd in his Senses that it is impossible to get any rational Answers from him; Dr. Smith, who came hither a few Days since from Schlusselbourg, declares that this Delirium is not counterfeited, as he thought in the Beginning; that the Duke has really lost his Senses; that his Health is greatly impair'd; that he spits Blood; and that he cannot in all appearance live long. The last time the Commissaries interrogated him, instead of answering to the Points, he desir'd to speak with the late Empress, assuring them that he had many things to discover to her.

A Lieutenant Engineer has been sent to Siberia, in order to build a House in that Kingdom for the late Duke of Courland and all his Family: That House is to be built 500 Werstes beyond Tobolskoy.

Milan, Feb 1. Five new Regiments are to be raised forthwith in this Dutchy, at the Expence of some of the greatest Families, among whom are those of Boromeus, Visconti and Clerici.

The King of Sardinia is repairing Fort Brunetta with all possible Diligence, and has order'd some Troops to march to that Side. We hear from Mantua, that 1500 Men are arriv'd there from Trieste, and that they expect 4000 more in a little time. From Parma we have Advice, that the Hussars that were quarter'd there are march'd to Tuscany.

Vienna, Feb. 8. General Count Neuperg is getting ready his Field Equipage in order to go and take upon him the Command of the Troops in Silesia. The Damage the Prussians have done in that Dutchy amounts to ten Millions of Florins.

Berlin, Feb. 14. Our last Letters from Silesia advise, that the Castle of Namslaw has surrender'd to the King's Troops, and that the Garrison, consisting of 300 Men, have been made Prisoners of War.

Vienna, Feb 15. The Levies go on with all the Success imaginable; never did we see such Numbers of young Men voluntarily offer to inlist in the Queen's Troops: It is the same in all the Hereditary Countries, and upwards of 6000 Gentlemen, chiefly Hungarians, have offer'd to serve at their own Charge in the War against the Prussians.

LONDON, February 16.

Letter from Moscow, January 20.

'Thamas Kouli Kan, since his Return from the Expedition against the Great Mogul, bent his Thoughts on the 'Means to chastise the Usbeck-Tartars, who, for these several Years past, did all that lay in their Power to traverse 'his Designs, and spirit up the Persians to a Revolt. In 'the Month of September last this Prince assembled an Army 'of 40,000 Men in the Province of Chorasan, and gave the 'Command of it to one of his best Generals. This Army, 'which was very strong in Cavalry, began its March in the 'Beginning of October towards Great Bucharia, the Country inhabited by these Tartars. The Usbecks being in'form'd of the Approach of the Persians, went to meet them, 'and gave them Battle near the River Arnu; the Dispute 'was Bloody, and the Usbecks were routed, tho' twice as 'strong as their Enemies in Numbers, they fled with so 'much Precipitation over the Arnu, that great Numbers of 'them were drown'd in attempting the Passage. The Persians also made haste to pass the River, and march'd di'rectly to Buchara, the Capital of Great Bucharia, in order 'to take Advantage of the Consternation which this Defeat 'would occasion in the Country. The Cham having as'sembled in haste all the Troops he possibly could, posted 'himself within a few Leagues of the City, resolv'd to wait 'the Approach of the Persians. The latter attack'd the 'Usbecks again, kill'd great Numbers of them, took many 'Prisoners, besides a very considerable Booty. Then the 'victorious Army carried Buchara by Storm, which is a 'large City, defended by a Rampart faced with Turf, and 'a Castle where the Cham resided. The Persians spent three 'Days in plundering the Town, and made great Slaughter 'of the Inhabitants; after which they set Fire to it in several Places, whereby great Part of it was reduced to Ashes, 'with many Mosques and Baths: The Booty made in that 'City was prodigious, the Merchants Quarter being well 'stock'd with all sorts of valuable Commodities, and the 'Cham not having had time to send away his Treasures. 'After the Persian Army halted a few Days in the Neighbourhood of Buchara, they proceeded to the Conquest of 'the rest of Great Bucharia. We have since receiv'd Advice, that all that Province has been brought under the 'Dominion of Kouli Kan. The Advantages of this Conquest are very great, and will considerably increase his 'Power. Great Bucharia, which was the Sogdiana and 'Bactria of the Ancients, lyes betwen Persia, the Great 'Mogul's Dominions, and the Country of the Calmucks, 'Tributaries to Russia. This Province is 150 German Miles 'in Length, and 140 in Breadth, and is reckon'd the best 'cultivated and best peopled Country in Great Tartary, the 'Soil being extremely fertile, and the Mountains abound'ing with rich Mines, which Kouli Kan has resolv'd to 'improve The Conquest of Bucharia secures the Province 'of Chorasan from the Irruptions which the Usbecks used to 'make into it.

Feb. 20. Having had various Accounts of the Engagement between Capt. Charles Gwyn, of the Princeſs Auguſta of Briſtol, and a Spaniſh Privateer, we are perſuaded the following juſt Relation of the Affair will not be unacceptable.

On Sunday February 8. Scilly bearing Eaſt about 50 Leagues, at Noon we ſaw a ſail on our Lee Bow, that upon Sight of us tack'd and ſtood athwart of us; on which we got all Things in readineſs to engage. At One o'Clock we found we could not get clear of her, ſo hawl'd up our Courſes, furl'd the ſmall Sails, ſhew'd Colours and fir'd a Gun She then hoiſted Engliſh Colours, ſtill kept athwart of us, and never lower'd a Sail. We ſtill kept our Wind, and ſhe appearing to us like an Engliſh Brigantine, were unwilling to fire into her, 'till we were certain of her Intention. In the mean time we kept her under our Lee, that if we found her an Enemy we might hinder her from Boarding. On her approaching near we perceiv'd their ſmall Arms on Deck, but ſhe kept her great Guns houſed. We then fir'd a Broad Side into her, which ſhe return'd with her Small Arms alſo; and the firſt Sight that preſented itſelf to us afterwards was her blowing up and ſinking; upon this with the utmoſt Expedition we hoiſted out our Yawl, but could ſave only five of the People, one of whom was the ſecond Lieutenant, from whom we had the following Account: That ſhe was call'd the Noſtra Signora de la Roſaria y las animas, mounted 12 Carriage and 12 Swivel Guns, Don Franciſco de la Curſta Commander; the Weight of her Metal, three of four, and eight of three Pounders; that at their ſailing from St. Sebaſtian's 23 Days before we met them, ſhe had on board 96 Hands; but having taken a Brigantine bound from Carolina to Plymourh the Day before ſhe had put 18 of her Men on board the Prize, and kept four of our Countrymen, one of them the Mate, who had the Misfortune to periſh with the Spaniſh Crew; that there are now belonging to St. Sebaſtian's four Privateers, viz. one of 30 Guns and 200 Men, one of 10, another of 12 Guns; and the 4th a Sloop of eight Carriage and ſix Swivel Guns; and that one of the ſmall ones and the Sloop will be cruiſing all this Month in or near our Channel. In this Engagement Capt. Gwyn, who had 14 Guns and 25 Men, receiv'd ſome Damage in his Sails and Rigging, but had none of his Men hurt: The five that he ſav'd of the Enemy are all of them moſt miſerably wounded by the Splinters.

PHILADELPHIA.

Beſides the Particulars publiſhed in our laſt, we learn the following by ſeveral Letters dated from before Carthagena.

That the Attack began by his Majeſty's Ships the Shrewsbury, Norfolk, Ruſſel, and Princeſs Amelia, who were order'd againſt the Forts Terra Bomba and St. Philip. It was the Shrewsbury that had her Cable Shot, and by that Means drove to Leeward, and fell into the Fire of Bocca Checo, from whence ſhe receiv'd 70 Shot in her Sides, had 25 Men killed, and 40 wounded; the other Ships ſuſtain'd but little Loſs, and carried the two Forts by landing 500 Men.

That the Trenches were open'd againſt Boco Checo, the 15th, without any Moleſtation from the Enemy.

The 18th, a Council of War was held, when it was determin'd to ſend all the Boats in the Fleet to attack a Battery on the South Side the Harbour, which was done on the 19th; on Landing, our Men were ſurpriſed by a ſtrong Fire from a conceal'd Battery of 4 Guns, and a Sloop that was hid with Buſhes; but the Men went on in good Order, took the Battery, Sloop, &c. and leaving Capt. Watſon to ſpike the Guns, march'd forward to another Battery of 15 Guns 24 Pounders, and after ſtanding the Fire of the Cannon and ſmall Shot, enter'd Sword in hand and carry'd it. The Admiral order'd a Piece of Eight a Man among the Sailors, for their gallant Behaviour in taking theſe Batteries. The Attack was commanded by Capt. Watſon in Admiral VERNON's 12 Oar Boat; Capt. Lawrance in Admiral Ogle's 12 Oar Boat, Capt. Coleby in Mr. Linſtock's 12 OarBoat, Capt. Boſcawen, Coats, Laws, &c.

The 20th at Night the Woods were clear'd away, the next Morning the Fire began from the Battery. On the 23d, Cols. Douglas and Sandford were killed at the Battery.

The ſame Day the Boyne, Hampton Court, Canterbury, Prince Frederick, Tilbury and Suffolk, went againſt Bocca Checo, where the Boyne received 9 Shot between Wind and Water, and her Maſts were much damaged. The other Ships pretty much damaged alſo; and my Lord Aubery, Commander of the Prince Frederick, kill'd.

By the 25th a Breach being made in Bocco Checo on the Land Side, a Serjeant and 12 Men of the Forlorn Hope enter'd, being follow'd ſoon after by 50 ſelect Soldiers, who put all the Spaniards in the Fort to Flight.

On the 1ſt of April, Caſtle Grande was alſo taken by our Troops: Then the Bomb Veſſels advanc'd ſo far as to play into the Town.

Commodore Leſtock is made Commander of Bocco Checo Caſtle.

Beſides thoſe above-mentioned, Col. Watſon, Col. Whinyard, and Col. Moore, were killed, with about 80 Subalterns, Sailors, and Soldiers, and 150 wounded.

Don Blas had left a Captain and 20 Men on board his Ship with Orders to ſink her; but there being no Boat to carry them on Shore, they forbore, and were taken with the Ship and Flag.

Don Blaſs, Governor of Carthagena, had cauſed all the Plate and other rich Merchandize that was on board the Men of War, and other Ships that were in the Harbour, to be lodged in Carthagena; and he has prevented the Inhabitants of that Place from carrying their Money and Goods out of Town, intending thereby to induce them to ſtay there, and help to defend the Place and their Goods and Riches therein. Its ſaid, that the Report of there being ſo much Riches in the Town of Carthagena, greatly animates the Sailors and Land Forces to be within the Walls of the ſame.

It was the Spence, Capt. Laws, which was ſent home with the News and Flag. Capt. Greaves, who is arrived here from Cork, met her on the 23d of April, to the Eaſtward of the Banks of Newfoundland, crowding Sail, and the Wind fair; ſo that ſhe is probably in England by this Time.

Laſt

" Laſt Thurſday, with inexpreſſible Joy, we received News of taking and deſtroying all the Forts, Caſtles and Batteries on the Harbour of Carthagena; the taking the Spaniſh Admiral Don Blaſs's Ship, with the Admiral's Flag on board; and blowing up and ſinking all the reſt of the Spaniſh Men of War and Galleons there, by his Majeſty's Ships and Forces under the Command of the brave Admiral Vernon, and General Wentworth; which has ſo expoſed that Town, as to make the Conqueſt of it, in all human Probability, but the Work of a few Days.

So Glorious an Event, to which even We may boaſt in ſome Meaſure, to have contributed, inflamed every loyal and honeſt Heart here, with a Warmth, unfelt before, in this Infant Country. Next Day, before Noon, two Companies of Gentlemen met, under Arms, at the State-Houſe, and from thence, with his Honour the Governor, in the Center, accompanied with our Honourable Proprietor, the Council, and the Mayor and Corporation, by a long March through the City, during the continual firing of great Guns from the Ships and Wharffs, came to the Court-Houſe, where they diſcharged three Volleys. There all the Loyal Healths, and the Healths of our Victorious Commanders were drank with loud Acclamations, and the People had ſome Barrels of Beer given amongſt them. The Proprietor and Governor dined publickly with a large Company of Gentlemen, and the Afternoon was ſpent in drinking all the former Healths, at the diſcharge of Rounds of Cannon. At Night four fifths of the Houſes in Town were Illuminated, which delighted the Eyes of the Spectators, but much more the Hearts of thoſe who interpreted them as unfeigned Demonſtrations of Joy, in this meek and pacifick Country, for the Succeſs of his Majeſty's Arms. The whole concluded with a Bonfire, and diſtributing a Pipe of Spaniſh Prize Wine amongſt the Populace.

That His Majeſty's future Service may receive no Prejudice from the Reports which have been induſtriouſly ſpread here by Perſons diſaffected to His Majeſty's Meaſures: It is thought neceſſary to inform the Publick, That not only the Bills drawn by Col. Blakeney on the Right Honourable HENRY PELHAM, Eſq; for the Subſiſtance of the Troops raiſed here and in the Government of the Lower Counties; but that thoſe alſo, drawn by our Governor on the Commiſſioners of his Majeſty's Navy, for Victualling and Tranſporting the Seven Companies raiſed in this Government, have been duly honoured."

Monday laſt John Butlock, Cooper, of this City, being as ſome ſuppoſe diſordered in his Senſes, cut his Wife's Throat with a ſharp pointed Pocket Knife and gave her beſides above 50 Wounds in the Body. He did not attempt to eſcape; but being the next Day in the Afternoon at a Publick Houſe, it was obſerv'd that his Shirt Sleeve was bloody; and as he appear'd to be much diſorder'd and confus'd, ſome Perſons went to his Houſe, and there found the Woman lying dead and miſerably mangled. He is committed to Priſon: The Coroner's Inqueſt, have found it wilful Murder.
